A framework of the International Employment Market

Are our students ready to enter the job market?

Our audience: Millennials & Generation Z

Millennials (Gen Y) (born between 1980-2000)	Gen Z (born between 1995-2010)
Motivated by purpose , more idealistic, want to make a difference	Motivated by security , and a paycheck- secure life outside of work
Collaborative and teamwork oriented; inclusion is a priority	More competitive, want to be judged on their own merits , not the team's
Prefer open, collaborative spaces and approach to problem solving	They want independence , like to work alone, have an office to themselves
Prefer email , instant messaging	Prefer face-to-face communication
Digital natives - grew up in a world with landlines & dial-up internet	True digital natives: grew up in a world of smart phones and free Wi-Fi

Millenials & Generation Z - Similarities

Millenials (Gen Y)

Gen Z

Both generations want to be catered to

The workplace has to conform to their needs

Entrepreneurial

No matter what type of job they target, the process remains the same

3 Steps for their Game Plan (3Ws)

Prioritize

Connect

Prepare

Step 1: Prioritize

Prioritize = where?

- Career Service Center; Alumni Office/network; job postings
- Find target employers
- Create a list of top 50 possible employers
- Find what employers offer work permits to international students

Step 2: Connect

Connect = who with?

- Family and friends
- Alumni
- LinkedIn
- Facebook/Twitter
- Glassdoor.com
- Meet-ups

Step 3: Prepare

Prepare = what?

- Résumé (Curriculum Vitae) + LinkedIn profile
- Cover Letter
- Interviews - Questions and Answers
- Thank you notes
- Follow-up

Remind students to...

- Network! Get F2F with companies, alumni, associations
- Optimize résumé keywords via Jobscan
- Take personality tests: StrengthsFinder 2.0
- Create SOAR stories, positioning statements and accomplishments
- Review etiquette + be professional
- Create online presence

Internships: formality or new trend?

Student perspective

- Ticket to full-time position
- Onboarding process to learn to work with different departments
- Work on great projects from the get-go that impact the company and themselves
- Positively impacted when autonomy is granted
- Challenging to balance workload of being a student and an “employee”

Internships: formality or new trend?

Employer perspective

- Year-round recruiting tool
- Find free of charge
- Easy way to assess future talent
- Extra help increases productivity on current employees
- Get novel perspectives, fresh ideas, specialized strengths and skill sets
- Inexpensive resource

Most common difficulties foreign students may encounter in entering the job market

- Language barrier
- Registering a work permit
- Not job ready; lack of preparation
- Waiting too long to network, start TODAY
- Choosing a major not in demand by employers
